«9 months of pregnancy through the eyes of a man»

ISBN : 978-2-915586-80-0
Size : 14x20,5 cm, 244 pages

Honey, I think I'm pregnant. Six words. It doesn't sound much, but it's a lot. Should we say it or not ? Girl or Boy ? Have you seen how big my breasts are ? Honey, you are putting on weight. Yes, 800 euros, this is the price for a baby carriage...

Here is the account of a young man, 28, who has nine months to tell us the pregnancy of his wife. From "wouah I'm going to be dad" to the Day of the Slap. Nine months during which Her belly is growing as the same time of His paternal instinct. Nine months of "bulletproof bras", stressing sonograms, Pampers marketing and almost ethnological observations of the pregnant woman. Nine months of humour and love. And god, we need it !

Men don't care about pregnancy?... Really ? For a man, becoming a father is quite an important thing in life. And it begins before the arrival of the baby. And for a man, a pregnant woman is beautiful. Especially without grandma panties....
